

ABSTRACT

Research title "The Influence of Peer Associations on Student Career Determination"

Career is a very urgent event in the life of every student and career is a problem for teenagers and is also a hot topic in society. So this research aims to find out whether or not there is an influence of peer interactions on students' career determination at Lukmanul Hakim High School.

The type of approach in this research uses a quantitative approach which consists of numbers and statistics. The research method uses a descriptive method. Regarding the analysis results obtained, it can provide an overview based on the variables studied. The variables consist of the independent variable, namely peer interactions and the dependent variable, namely determining students' careers.

This research was conducted on students in classes So the results are determined as follows: H1 (there is an influence of peer interaction on determining students' careers) is accepted, and H0 (peers' interaction has no influence on determining students' careers) is rejected.

Keyword : Relationship, Peers, Students' Careers.

