Learning media is one of the important factors in the learning process. So in this case the teacher must find the right media to increase student interest in learning. Like the problems that occurred at SDN Talango IV where some fourth grade students were still lacking in reading short stories or fiction stories, researchers to solve these problems when teaching would use a learning media object. With this, researchers use Pop-up book media so that it can make it easier or improve and attract students' interest to read and understand when learning activities take place which are assisted by using image media such as Pop-up books.

This researcher aims to (1) describe the implementation of Pop-Up Book Media in the Thematic lessons of fiction and style material for class IV SDN Talango IV. (2) Describe the application of Pop-Up Book Media in increasing students' reading interest in the Thematic lessons of fiction story material and style for class IV SDN Talango IV. (3) Describing the application of Pop-up Book Media can improve student learning outcomes for fiction story material and class IV style at SDN Talango IV.

This study used Classroom Action Research (CAR) which was conducted in 2 cycles, each cycle consisting of four stages, namely planning (planning), action (acting), observation (observing), and reflection (reflecting).

From the above analysis, learning using Pop-Up Book media is declared successful, it is known from the increased interest in reading in the very good category in each cycle, I (25%), and cycle II (82%) and the increase in learning outcomes in each cycle, I (33%), and cycle II (82%) so that it reaches the maximum.
