Yulismawati Ana. 2022. Homonymy of Madurese dialect Sumenep dialect and Pamekasan dialect STKIP PGRI Sumenep : supervisor I : Suhartatik, M.Pd. Supervisor II : Siti Arifah, M.Pd. thesis. STKIP PGRI Sumenep. Indonesia language and literature education study program

The Madurese speech of the Sumenep community and the Pamekasan community has a homonymous meaning relationship, namely the writing and pronunciation are the same but have different meanings. The purpose of this study is to (1) describe the homonymous form of the Madurese language and (2) the meaning of the Madurese homonym. The object of this research is the semantic study that examines homonymy, while the data sources in this study are the speeches of the Sumenep people of Batuan Barat village and the Pamekasan people of Duko Timur village.

The method used in this research is descriptive qualitative because the data in this study is in the form of words and studied in terms of homonymy which are monomorphemic word units with Madurese homonymy. And the homonymy meaning of the Madurese Indonesia is a complete dictionary description of the Madurese Indonesia language and the lexical meaning and meaning in the context of speech that is obtained through communication.

As for the data source in this study used data collection techniques with the SLC method (listen, engage, speak) with recording techniques and note-taking techniques and found data that had the same pronunciation and writing but different meanings.

There are some data found by drawing conclusions, namely a little affixation process, there are 3 prefix processes that contain 3 data, and 1 reduplication process and the whole discusses the basic word data found in data discovery as evidenced by Madurese sentences.
